

List of Contributors

Chandramukhee, an M.Phil. student of the Geography Department at the Delhi School of Economics, University of Delhi, and did her Post-graduation in Geography from the Delhi School of Economics, University of Delhi, India. Her research in M.Phil. is specialized on dowry practices in urban Patna in the field of Gender Geography. She received a scholarship in Gender studies from the Asian Institute of Technology, Thailand. Her research interests include social practices in urban space that leads to gender discrimination, her focus is mainly on understanding women's situation in the patriarchal system in India.

Natalie Collie has a PhD in creative writing and currently teaches theories of journalism, communication, and the media in the School of Journalism and Communication, University of Queensland. Her research interests include urban culture, narrative & genre, media ecology, speculative fiction, gender, and transmedia storytelling.

Ami Crinnion completed a Master's in European Urban Cultures in 2012 after spending the duration of the yearlong course studying in four different universities: Manchester Metropolitan University (MMU), Free University Brussels (VUB), Tilburg University and Estonian Academy of Arts (EKA). Ami has undertaken feminist research in the role of women and femininity in women's magazines and the following study of The Slutwalks. Ami currently lives in London and works for a children's mental health charity.

Judit Minczinger is a doctoral candidate at the Friedrich Schlegel Graduate School for Literary Studies at the Freie Universität Berlin. Her dissertation focuses on literary representations of women in a variety of public spaces of the fin-de-siècle metropolis.

Stephanie Leder is a PhD scholar at the University of Cologne, Germany. She studied Geography, English, Biology and Education at the University of Cologne and the University of New Brunswick, Canada. For her PhD thesis on Education for Sustainable Development in Geography Teaching in Pune/India, she receives a PhD scholarship from the Cologne Graduate School for Teaching Methodology. The PhD project is in corporation with the Bharati Vidyapeeth Institute of Environment Education and Research in Pune. Her research interests include Geography Teaching and Megacity Research (water, health, informal settlements, gender and education) with a regional focus on India.