

List of Contributors

Dr. Dvir Abramovich, the Jan Randa Senior Lecturer in Hebrew and Jewish Studies, is Director of The University of Melbourne Centre for Jewish History and Culture. Dr. Abramovich is President of the Australian Association of Jewish Studies and is editor of the Australian Journal of Jewish Studies — Australia's only peer-reviewed journal devoted to the field of Jewish studies. He contributes regularly to the national publication and has been interviewed on Australian radio. The author of more than 45 peer-reviewed essays and book chapters, he is currently writing a book on Israeli author Amos Oz. Dr. Dr. Abramovich has lectured in local and international conferences and sits on the editorial board of several international academic journals. He is co-editor of the forthcoming book Testifying to the Holocaust.

Magda Romanska received her B.A. from Stanford University (1998) and her Ph.D. from Cornell University (2006). She also studied at the Yale University as an exchange scholar. Former member of the editorial board of Theater Magazine, Palimpsest: Yale Literary and Arts Magazine and Yale Journal of Law and Humanities, she also served on the board of Diacritics. Romanska's recent articles have appeared/are forthcoming in The Drama Review, Performance Research: A Journal of the Performing Arts, and Women's Studies: An Interdisciplinary Journal. Her two book chapters were recently published by the Cambridge Scholars Publishers. She is a recipient of Mellon Foundation Post-Doctoral Fellowship (2006). Currently, she is an Assistant Professor at Emerson College in Boston and a research associate at Harvard University's Davis Institute for Russian and Eurasian Studies.

Rohee Dasgupta is Ph.D. candidate in the Research Institute of Law, Politics and Justice, Keele University, United Kingdom. Her thesis is a legal ethnographic research on renewing Polish-Jewish identity in contemporary Poland. She has been a visiting scholar at the Simon Dubnow Institute of Jewish History and Culture, Leipzig University, Germany.