

10

Authors

Authors

Angelika Mietzner is a research fellow at the Institute for African Studies and Egyptology, University of Cologne. Her research interests cover descriptive and sociolinguistic aspects of Nilotic languages, language styles in fleeting relationships and tourism, and critical heritage studies. Her main research was conducted in Kenya where topics of all research interests can be met.

<http://afrikanistik.phil-fak.uni-koeln.de/mietzner.html>
a.mietzner@uni-koeln.de

Nico Nassenstein is a post-doc researcher at the Institute for African Studies and Egyptology, University of Cologne. His main research interests cover variationist sociolinguistics, pragmatics and non-standard realizations of language. He has worked extensively on topics such as language and identity, language and conflict and linguistic creativity, and has recently developed a research interest in language and tourism as well as critical linguistics.

<http://www.afrikanistik.phil-fak.uni-koeln.de/nassenstein.html>
nico.nassenstein@uni-koeln.de

Nina Schneider is a senior research fellow at the Global South Study Center (GSSC), University of Cologne. She holds a PhD in History from the University of Essex, UK, and was a Visiting Scholar at Columbia University's Institute for the Study of Human Rights (ISHR, 2012) and the National University of Brasília (UNB, 2015). She is particularly interested in authoritarian regimes; violence; child labour abolitionists and their campaigns global; critical human rights studies; and theories from the "South".

<http://gssc.uni-koeln.de/de/node/813>
nina.schneider@uni-koeln.de

Anne Storch is professor for African Studies at the University of Cologne. Her research combines cultural and social contexts of languages, the semiotics of linguistic practices, epistemes and ontologies of colonial linguistics, but also linguistic description. She has contributed to the analysis of registers and choices, languages as social practice, ways of speaking and parts of complex repertoires. She is interested in epistemic language, metalinguistics, noise and silence, as well as Critical Heritage Studies.

<http://afrikanistik.phil-fak.uni-koeln.de/storch.html>
astorch@uni-koeln.de

Janine Traber is a student in African Studies, Egyptology and Archaeology and is working as a Student Assistant at the University of Cologne. Besides her fields of study, she is interested in tourism and gender studies, modern resource management and food, and agriculture organization.

j.traber@uni-koeln.de

